

The Snake in the Jungle

Written by Sarah Hall for the Story Massage Programme

www.storymassage.co.uk

	Sally Snake slithered through the jungle. She slithered up to an elephant. Ssssssss
	But the elephant ran away. Stomp, stomp, stomp.
	Sally Snake slithered through the jungle. She slithered up to a gazelle. Ssssssss
	But the gazelle ran away. Whoosh, whoosh, whoosh.
	Sally Snake slithered through the jungle. She slithered up to a tree frog. Ssssssss
	But the tree frog ran away. Bounce, bounce, bounce.
	Sally Snake slithered through the jungle. She slithered up to the wise old owl. 'Ssssssss...
	Sssssssorry,' said Sally Snake, 'I scare all the other animals away.'
	So, the wise old owl flew around the jungle and told all the animals that Sally Snake was not really very scary.
	Sally Snake slithered through the jungle. She slithered up to:
	the elephant
	the gazelle
	the tree frog
	and the wise old owl
	And they all played happily together.